1.0 SUMMARY

1.1 Introduction

The City of Merritt completed the "City Centre Improvement Plan" in July 2005. From that plan, the City established a City Centre Board (CCB) to provide leadership, coordination and promotion for implementation of the plan. Through the CCB, the City has been successful in completing some of the initial initiatives identified in the plan and securing funding for implementation of some significant projects. In particular, these projects include replacement of the Voght Street Bridge and funding and design development for "Legacy Square" at Voght and Granite.

The City Centre Plan Update – 2008 is a five year plan for future initiatives that will further advance implementation of the original plan. This update responds to the intent that the plan serve as a "working document" to be amended and adapted based on accomplishments, changing priorities and new opportunities related to improvement of the downtown. The primary purpose of the update, as presented in this report, is to ensure that the implementation program and action plan sections of the plan reflect present needs and objectives to advance the vision and strategy for downtown Merritt.

1.2 Objectives

The update addresses the following objectives:

- Confirm the currency of the City Centre Plan with respect to vision, strategies and goals
- Review the original action plans to identify completed, pending and remaining projects
- Identify possible projects within the downtown over the next five years, including streetscape, murals, public works, private development and other projects, and identify opportunities to coordinate and expand implementation of City Centre objectives within these
- Review and identify the need and direction for possible amendment or preparation of project planning, development policy or other tools applicable to downtown enhancement
- Review the operation of the CCB in relation to the present mandate and potential addition of economic development and tourism marketing functions
- Define and prioritize a five-year program for initiatives and budgets related to on-going improvement of the City Centre

1.3 Approach and Process

The City Centre Plan Update was completed through the following process and activities:

- 1. Assembly and review of background information including City Centre Plan and related information.
- 2. A workshop with CCB and City Council was undertaken on January 23, 2007 at the City Council Chambers. The workshop accomplished the following:
 - Review and confirmation of the City Centre Plan vision, strategy and general concept
 - Updated the status of original implementation and action plans from City Centre Plan
 - Identified new and emerging initiatives being advanced by the City and organizations represented on the CCB
 - Identified the general direction as contemplated by the City for review and amendment of the role and model for the CCB
 - Preliminary selection, consolidation and prioritization of initiatives to be included in the updated five-year plan
- 3. Preparation of a draft report to document the proposed updates to the City Centre Plan including:
 - Description of individual action plans for the initiatives and direction derived from the workshop and review of the original plan
 - Identification and description of separate streetscape enhancement initiatives derived from of the overall program described in the City Centre Plan
 - Refinement of the organization model and description of component organization of the CCB
 - Definition of the strategy focus and priority for each initiative
 - Preparation of a matrix to consolidate the key information related to each initiative in a stand-alone document to facilitate implementation management
- 4. Presentation of the draft update report at a meeting of the City Centre Board and Council on March 19, 2008 leading to identification of required refinements to the final report.
- 5. Completion and submission of the final report.

2.0 PROPOSED INITIATIVES

2.1 Overview

The City Centre Plan Update 2008 is focussed towards identification and implementation of a number of initiatives related to improvement of Merritt City Centre. The initiatives are presented as specific Action Plans and summarized in a matrix included in this report. The following discussion provides a description of the organization of the initiatives and a general guide to the content and structure of the Action Plans.

2.2 Categories for the Proposed Initiatives

The City Centre Plan Update identifies approximately fifty initiatives to be pursed through the City Centre Board. As discussed below, a task force structure is proposed as a refinement to the organizational model for the CCB. Based on consideration of a task force approach to project implementation, the proposed initiatives were considered to identify similar purposes and intents. From this perspective, four categories emerged that could relate to a task force / committee structure for the CCB. These categories are described as follows and incorporated in the summary matrix of initiatives, in the numbering system adopted for the initiatives, and in the revised organization model.

- A. CCB Mandate and Structure: Initiatives in this category relate to defining and establishing the role, responsibilities, reporting requirements and representation of the CCB.
- B. Promotion and Attraction: Initiatives in this category relate to engaging the community, communicating the role and activities of the CCB, and attracting visitors and residents of Merritt to enjoy the downtown.
- C. Planning and Development: Initiatives in this category relate to implementation of physical features, facilities and special places to accommodate activity, programming, aesthetic enhancement, and entertainment and cultural venues.
- D. Funding and Partnership: Initiatives in this category are focused towards developing and leveraging the resources available to the CCB through association and encouragement of participation by others in the broad goals and specific initiatives.

2.3 Strategy Focus for Initiatives

The original Merritt City Centre Plan described five specific strategy areas related to initiatives and enhancements undertaken to improve downtown Merritt. These strategies were indicated as People, Place, Promotion, Partners and Process. The original intent of defining these areas of focus was to encourage a comprehensive approach to developing and promoting the city centre as "The Star of the Nicola Valley". This intent was confirmed through the review.

In order to encourage and facilitate this comprehensive approach, the initiatives identified in the Update – 2008 have been linked to a specific primary strategy focus. Supporting or secondary areas of strategic focus have been identified, as relevant, for some initiatives.

Reference to the strategic focus for a particular initiative will assist the City Centre Board with resolving the objectives and intended outcomes for the initiative. In addition, reference to the strategic focus will assist with consolidating or "dove-tailing" a particular initiative with others, where possible or desirable. As an example, developing directories and map kiosks within the downtown could incorporate the Walks of Stars, heritage, and community trail tour routes and advance strategies that focus on Place and support those related to People and Partners.

2.4 Components of the Proposed Initiatives

Each initiative proposed in the original and updated City Centre Plan includes a number of potential components. The original plan provided conceptual and general descriptions for proposed improvements to the city centre but did not specifically link or incorporate these with the identified initiatives. For example, development of Walk of Stars directories could be a component of a plaza or a streetscape project but this opportunity could be overlooked if this possibility is not identified.

In the update, components of the included initiatives have been identified on the summary matrix. The components include various physical development, planning, promotion, and community engagement opportunities such as: buildings, roads and sidewalk, streetscape, communication, public art, First Nations and community contribution. Any one initiative could potentially include or relate to a number of components.

The identification of the components of various initiatives is intended as a guide and is not definitive. Identification of the components for a particular initiative is intended to assist the City and City Centre Board with resolving and coordinating the scope and approach for a particular initiative and potentially achieving multiple objectives through implementation. The ultimate components of an initiative will need to be reviewed and resolved on a case-by-case basis as a particular initiative is advanced.

2.5 Priority of Initiatives

Individual initiatives were assigned a priority through discussion with the CCB and consideration of the current status, relative importance and the sequencing of the initiative. Based on a five year horizon for the update, priorities were assigned as follows:

- Priority 1 1 to 2 year timeframe (2008 2009)
- Priority 2 2 to 4 year timeframe (2009 2012)
- Priority 3 3 to 5 year timeframe (2010 2013)
- Priority 4 more than 5 year timeframe (post-2013)

3.0 REVISION OF THE ORGANIZATIONAL MODEL

The organizational model proposed in the City Centre Plan, 2005 has been implemented through establishment of the City Centre Board (CCB) generally as recommended. The intent and purpose for the CCB is to provide leadership and coordination of initiatives to improve downtown Merritt and to bring together various organizations with interest and commitment to the downtown. The CCB is appointed by and operates under a mandate as established by the City of Merritt. In formal terms, the City of Merritt remains responsible for the overall direction of the CCB and, by extension, the initiatives undertaken by the CCB, consistent with the organizational model.

The broad intent and purpose for the CCB has been confirmed through the process of preparing this update. However, some changes to the model are proposed to reflect the current composition of the CCB and to describe a task force structure for implementation of initiatives. In addition, the City is contemplating a review of the composition and functions of the CCB that may lead to further refinement of the organizational model.

The current composition of the CCB varies from the original plan as follows and is reflected in the revised organizational model:

- The Heritage Commission is represented directly on the CCB rather than being engaged through an "ad-hoc association"
- Individual business operators have been named to the CCB in lieu of representation from a business association which has not been established
- The Tourism and Economic Development Committee (TED) is represented on the CCB

A proposed task force structure for the CCB emerged through consideration as to how the CCB could best act to lead and coordinate initiatives to improve the City Centre. With the focus of the City Centre Plan Update towards implementation of a broad range of initiatives, a task force structure will facilitate management of the implementation process, allow for distribution of responsibility for carrying out initiatives, and provide a framework for communication and reporting within the CCB and among partner organizations. The CCB intends to establish task forces as required to implement on-going or time specific initiatives. Task forces should represent the various partners supporting a particular project and, as necessary, include appropriate technical support to assist with resolving requirements for the initiative.

The proposed task force structure included in the organizational model follows the categories described above for organization of the proposed initiatives; namely:

- Promotion and Attraction
- Planning and Development
- Funding and Partnership

The primary impetus for the review of the composition and function of the CCB, as contemplated by the City, is to assess the potential role of the CCB in relation to tourism development in response to the "Merritt Tourism Plan" completed in September 2007. This function is presently a responsibility of the Tourism and Economic Development Committee (TED). Considering the potential for overlapping and complementary responsibilities between these two groups, the review is anticipated to consider the role the CCB might play in advancing the objectives of the Tourism Plan. In addition, the review will consider the composition of the CCB to foster appropriate representation on the CCB and coordination of activities with other community groups and organizations. The potential effects on the CCB organizational model of the contemplated review have not been considered in this update of the City Centre Plan.

The following graphic illustrates the proposed revised organizational model for the CCB developed from the original model.

4.0 ACTION PLANS

4.1 General

The City Centre Plan, 2005 provided a number of Action Plans setting out a description of specific initiatives to be undertaken and supported by description of the responsible organization, the related tasks, the timing for completion, and an outline of the anticipated resources and coordination. The Action Plan template is modified for use in this update report to include additional information as described, in part, in the preceding section of the report. Specifically, the additional information includes: Item Number related to category of the initiative; Strategic Focus for the initiative; and, in the case of streetscape projects described in the 2005 plan, an order-of-magnitude capital budget.

4.2 Summary Matrix

The summary matrix compiles the various initiatives described in the Action Plans on a single document that can stand alone as a tool for organizing projects and monitoring progress. The matrix provides an outline of the potential components of the initiative. This information will assist with resolving the intent, objectives, scope, process and potential coordination among initiatives.

4.3 Streetscape Projects and Priorities

A Streetscape Priorities Plan is included in this report primarily to illustrate the proposed priorities for streetscape projects. This plan is developed from the Overall Concept Plan for streetscape improvements as included in the 2005 City Centre Plan. The plan also includes revisions to reflect the projects undertaken to date and indicates, where resolved, proposed projects that have been added or modified from the original plan.

Specifically, the streetscape priorities plan includes the following revisions from the original:

- Plaza title amended to "Legacy Square" project
- Addition of label to indicate lane enhancement
- Addition of label to indicate Voght Street Entrance Corridor project between the bridge and Rotary Park
- Addition of label to indicate Voght Street Enhancement project between Coutlee Avenue and Claybanks Park
- Addition of Gateways at each end of Nicola Avenue within the downtown core
- Addition of labels to indicate options for RV Parking area

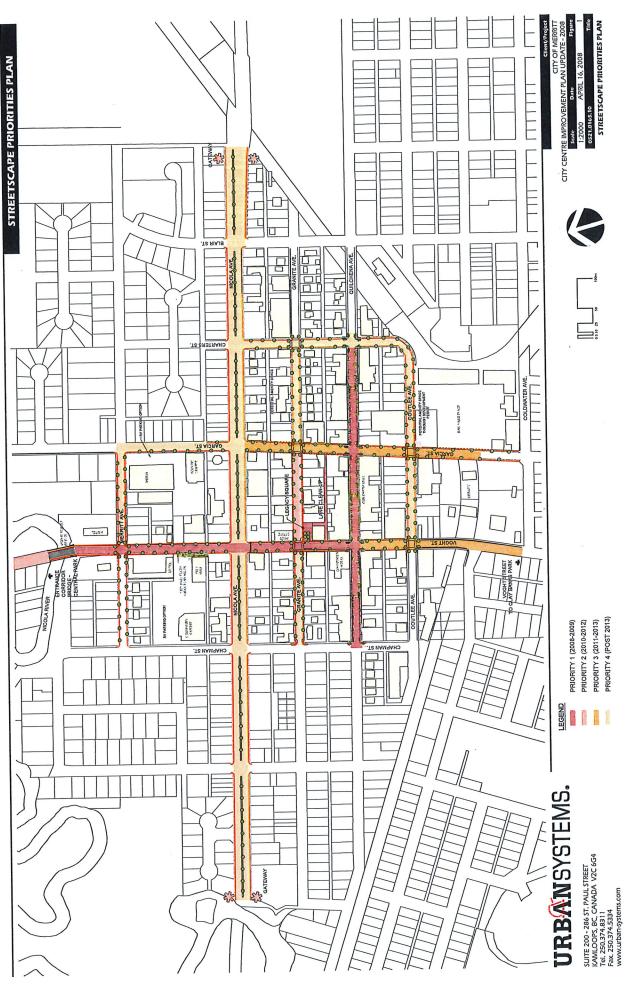

Order-of-magnitude budgets for various streetscape projects have been included in the applicable Action Plans. These budgets are derived from estimates included in the City Centre Plan 2005. In the case of Quilchena Avenue, the budget reflects the intent of the City to limit work to repaving of the street and undertaking assessment and maintenance of existing trees.

This update generally assumes a similar scope and type of work related to the projects as described in the original plan. These budgets are considered appropriate given the preliminary nature of these projects and the timeframe anticipated prior to implementation. The budgets have not been adjusted for potential price changes since 2005 and have not been adjusted to reflect contemplated changes to streetscape materials and finishes. Information gained from tender and construction of anticipated projects in 2008 could be used to inform and adjust the budgets as necessary.
